The War Continent

Many Dogs — Few Bones

Despite the dull and unromantic record of the first eight months of Europe's war some Americans say we will be drawn into it "eventually." They are an unimaginative lot who say that. It takes neither imagination nor courage to drift into a war — but it takes both to keep out.

Proof Is Claimed Allies Planned to Seize Norway Too

Germany Says She Beat Them "by a Few Hours"

RIBBENTROP TALK

Asserts British Issued Seizure Orders April 6-7

BERLIN —(AP)— Germany Saturday, proclaimed the existence of a state of war between the Reich and Norway, and charged the Allies with deep-seated plans to invade Norway which German intervention foiled "by a few hours."

Shortly after Hitler in a sweeping proclamation ended the uncertain diplomatic status of Germany's invasion of the northern kingdom. Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop announced the publication of "documentary proof" that the Allies had planned to occupy Norway in an effort to widen the war "to destroy Germany."

Von Ribbentrop charged in a formal address that Norway connived at the plan.

The government issued a series of documents purporting to show that the British issued orders April 6-7 for the seizure of Scandinavian ports. The capture of 300 British prisoners including a staff commander bearing "political and military importance," British orders was announced.

C. A. Powell Hurt in Car Accident

Loses Control of Auto While Driving on East Second

C. A. Powell, Hope carpenter and cabinet maker, was injured late Friday afternoon when he lost control of his automobile while traveling east on East Second street.

The car struck a guy wire near the Claude Hamilton home. Mr. Powell was rushed to Josephine hospital in a Hope Furniture company ambulance where physicians said he sustained minor head injuries, and injuries to the right knee and left side.

He was removed to his home in the Rocky Mound community Saturday morning. Physicians said Mr. Powell had been ill and apparently fainted while driving his car, causing him to lose control of it.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

They Serve the People

The congressmen mentioned below recently received wide public attention. Pick out the reason each was brought into the spotlight.

1. Senator Carl A. Hatch: (a) sought to end U. S. purchase of silver, (b) introduced railroad legislation, (c) sponsored bill to revise "clean politics" act, (d) invited Mrs. Roosevelt to dinner party.

2. Representative Luther Patrick: (a) demanded hearing on Sumner Welles' European jaunt, (b) gave definition of a congressman's duties, (c) asked impeachment of President, (d) urged extension of Hull trade pact.

3. Senator J. H. Donahay: (a) refused to become "favorite son" candidate, later announced retirement from Senate, (b) established fund for care of orphans, (c) led fight against census questions, (d) presided at hearing of subversive activities.

5. Senator John G. Townsend: (a) led movement to halt buying of foreign gold and silver, (b) criticized Vice President Garner, (c) announced he would support Farley for president, (d) asked revision of anti-trust laws.

U. S. Judges to Be Honored at Banquet

EL DORADO — Plans have been made by the Union County Bar Association for a banquet to be held the night of Monday, May 6, in honor of three Federal judges who will be in El Dorado at that time. The judges are: Judge Joseph W. Woodruff, Omaha, Neb.; Judge Hearstall Legon, Fort Smith and Judge Harry J. Ramsey of Hope.

The three jurists will be in El Dorado on that date to preside at a three-judge session of the United States district court in the case of the Lion Oil Refining Company versus O. C. Bailey, chairman and other members of the Arkansas Oil and Gas Commission.

The banquet will be a ladies night affair with members of bar associations in neighboring counties to be invited. President Tom Marlin has announced. He has appointed the following committee to make arrangements: Mrs. Jessie Hart, John Gosnell and Bernard P. Whetstone.

Forest planting in the United States during 1939 totaled 504,616 acres.

How to Miss Ball--in Two Easy Lessons, as Hope Opens the 1940 Softball Season

This Dog Brings Home the Money

German Police Dog Re- covers Pocketbook Containing $4

"Bill," an 18-month-old German Police dog, is a prize possession of Lon Cox, farmer, living 16 miles south of Hope on the Lewisville highway.

Mr. Cox appeared at The Star office Saturday and exhibited a pocketbook containing four one-dollar bills and other values which his dog picked up on the Lewisville highway and deposited it on the back doorstep of the Cox home.

The pocketbook contained an identification card showing the owner to be George W. Siegfried, 5388 Delmar street, St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Cox has written the owner telling of the recovery of the pocketbook by his prize German Police dog. The pocketbook contained many imprints of the dog's teeth.

Mr. Cox theorized that the pocketbook accidentally slipped from the trousers of Siegfried, possibly while he stopped along the roadside to repair a punctured automobile tire.

A temperature between 45 and 55 degrees Fahrenheit is the best one for keeping eggs.

These photos show the opening of the 1940 softball season at Hope's Fair park last Tuesday night, with games being scheduled nightly.

Urges Shakeup in the U. S. Land Bank

Wallace Urges Farm- ers to Fight for Interest Cut

STPAUL —(AP)— Secretary Wallace Saturday urged farmers to organize and fight for the re-organization of the Federal Land Bank system, and a reduction in farm mortgage interest rates, and liberalization of farm credit policies throughout the nation.

Addressing farmers from 17 states, Wallace attacked "selfish interests which have opposed efforts to improve the land bank system and put it on a better basis for serving the farmers."

Swiss Hack Away at Jungle of Laws

FRIEBURG, Switzerland — (AP)— Switzerland's twenty-two cantons have their own laws, differing as widely as those of the American states, but if all cantons follow Fribourg's lead things won't be that way long.

The canton of Fribourg recently won the distinction of being the first canton to adopt the new Federal Penal Code, written by Swiss legal experts and sponsored by the Federal government to end the Swiss law tangle.

COTTON

NEW YORK —(AP)— July cotton opened at 10.45 and closed at 10.53-55. Middling spot closed at 10.98 up 5.

Washington Farmers Find New Feed

GARDENA, Wash. —(AP)— Pea vine ensilage and pea vine hay are becoming important dairy and livestock fattening feeds in southeastern Washington, as a result of the growing importance of the vegetable canning industry.

E. C. Burlingame, local sheep rancher, fed about 50 tons of pea hay last fall, and reported it unusually good for fattening buck lambs and yearlings and in producing a copious milk flow in ewes.

The hay was cured without moulding or decay, he said, at pea harvest time by spreading the vines on a flail and separating them with a hay-tender to permit efficient drying.

Dairymen generally feed the ensilage from racks, allowing the cows access to it throughout the day, and feeding alfalfa at night and during milking. Supplements hereabouts include sugar beet tops and pulp and the apple pomace from the Walla Walla vinegar works.

Some use pea hay and pea silage without recourse to other roughage. Pea silage sells for $2.25 to $3 a ton. The hay costs about the same as alfalfa.

Push Norwegians Back in Effort to Reach Trondheim

Two German Columns to Reinforce Garri- son There

MARCH IN HASTE

Allies Concentrated at Storöen, South of Trondheim

By the Associated Press

The war in Norway in a nutshell. Two German columns driving to establish contact between the main forces in southern Norway and the garrison in Trondheim routed Norwegian troops and were pushing back the Allied forces with the support of low-flying, starting planes.

The German forces advancing up the Glomma river valley passed Roros and pushed on with surprising speed toward Storöen. Allied concentration point 30 miles south of Trondheim.

The same column extended operations eastward almost to the Swedish border.

The other advance, in Gildbrandsdal, almost reached Dombas, vital railroad and highway junction 75 miles south of Storöen. An important engagement is expected there.

The Allied troops at Lillehammer were said to have retreated.

Scattered fighting occurred in southern Norway where the Norwegians made a stand at Gulsik, 65 miles northwest of Oslo; and on the west coast, where the Nazis extended their occupied area around Bergen.

The situation at Steinkjer was unchanged.

There were no developments at Narvik.

To Patrol Danube

BUDAPEST — Hungary announced Saturday it had proposed international control of the 15-mile stretch of the Danube near the iron gate which Germany accused the Allies of attempting to dynamite.

The proposal, understood to have full German backing, was sent to Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Rumania.

Western Union, 18 Men Indicted

U. S. Charges Firm With Transmitting Racing News

CHICAGO —(AP)— The federal government moved again in its anti-gambling drive Friday—this time with grand jury indictments against the Western Union Telegraph company and 18 individuals.

Three indictments which followed an investigation of wire and radio services in the dissemination of horse racing information were returned. One of them accused the telegraph company of conspiring with 11 individuals to violate the lottery laws against carrying price lists across state lines. The government charges transmission of pari-mutuel betting odds and prices paid on winning horses as lottery price lists.

As second indictment brought radio broadcasting into the investigation for the first time since the government launched its offensive against distribution of gambling information last fall. It accused four Chicagoans—Frank J. (Chevy) Tobacco, Ryan, Hymie (Loud Mouth) Levin, Harry (Greasy Thumb) Guzik and Maurice Goldstein—of conspiring with other persons, unknown to the jury, to maintain a miniature broadcasting apparatus to transmit race track results to the 400 club in Chicago.

The third indictment, alleging conspiracy to further a lottery, named three Chicagoans.

United States District Attorney Campbell, who identified Levin and Guzik as former lieutenants in the Capone gang, said the indictments grew out of an investigation of race news services that sprang up after M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher, abandoned the Nationwide News Service last fall.

Ten of the individuals named were formerly associated with Annenberg's Nationwide News Service. Among them was James M. Ragen, St. of Chicago, former general manager for Nationwide. Annenberg pleaded guilty in federal court last Tuesday to evasion of $1,217,296 in income taxes.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, to whom the indictments were presented, issued bench warrants for all the 18 individuals named.

Banks of all classifications in the United States on June 30, 1939, numbered 15,082.

ALL ABOUT BABIES
By RICHARD ARTHUR BOLT, M. D., Dr. P. H. Secretary, Maternal and Child Health Section of American Public Health Association

The Easy Descent
"Easy is the descent to Avernus," wrote Vergil describing in his Aeneid the gentle slope down which Aeneas passed into the murky dwelling-places of the shades of the dead.
Easy, too, is the progression by which country after country has been absorbed and their independent existence swallowed up. The last spectacular stages are easily seen accompanied as they are by blitzkrieg fireworks. But that makes it all the easier to overlook the first easy stages by which the process was begun.
It begins, believes Alexander Sachs, New York economist, with a simple, harmless-looking bilateral trade agreement.
A bilateral trade agreement is simply an agreement between two countries to exchange products on an exclusive basis. Other countries are squeezed out. Note that this is the very opposite to the Hull program, which extends equal treatment to all, leaving the door open to broader trade rather than closing it.
Now note the "easy descent" from one step to another as outlined by Sachs to a recent Cleveland College instructor:
1. You sign a bilateral trade agreement.
2. The other country gradually extends its advantage, until suddenly you find it is taking all your export goods.
3. It uses only part of them, dumps the rest on the world market. The price plummets.
4. Gradually your currency goes all out of gear as a result of this displacement of markets.
5. Now you are forced to adjust your currency to that of the partner in the trade pact, since you are far in its debt.
6. You are now merely a tail to the economic dog of the other country.
7. On one pretext or another the other country moves in with its army, looting your treasury of what gold is left.
8. Your standard of living is pushed down so that more and more of your products can be sent to feed the other country's war machine.
9. Enslavement and degradation.
There is the progression, easy and almost unconscious, from a simple bilateral trade treaty to the final payoff.
And that is why international trade has an importance far beyond the bare value of the goods exchanged. It has become something outside of and beyond itself—the keen weapon of a new imperialism.

He made no mistakes, took no wrong road.
He never fumbled the ball.
He never went down 'neath the weight of the load—
He simply did nothing at all.
He lost no hard fight in defense of the right.
Never bled with his back to the wall.
Never fell faint in his climb for the right—
He simply did nothing at all.
So death came high, for life slipped by.
And he feared for the judgement Hall;
When they asked him why, he said with a sigh,
I simply did nothing at all.
Oh, God will pardon your blunder, my friend,
Or regard with pity your fall;
But the one big sell, that will always tell
Is to simply do nothing at all.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham of Arkansas were Friday night guests of Mrs. Cunningham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Thomas.

Miss Elizabeth Green of the Texarkana high school faculty is spending the week end with home folks.

Miss Gerlene Urrey of Hot Springs was called to the bedside of her grandmother Mrs. P. L. Aslin, who has been ill for several weeks, having recently undergone an operation at the Julia Chester Hospital.

Dr. George L. Hodge, organist and choirmaster, St. John's Episcopal church in Helena, sponsored by the House of Young Churchmen of the Parish, gave an organ recital of unusual merit Friday evening at Saint Marks Episcopal church. A splendid congregation of music lovers greeted Dr. Hodge, who presented a most interesting and tuneful program, giving ample opportunity to test his musical ability from every stand point. Dr. Hodge is also trained in the best traditions of church music, and gave four hymns, giving interesting points in the history of each before rendition. The congregation joined in singing the final hymn. Dr. Hodge reached the climax of his program in his rendition of the soul-stirring "Hallelujah Chorus from The Messiah." A most beautiful program from a finished musician, and we bespeak a congregation of listeners, at any time Dr. Hodge chooses to honor our city.

Rev. Harry Wintermyer has as week end guest, Don Harrison of Warren, Rev. Wintermyer and guest and Jimmy Henry were Saturday visitors in Texarkana.

Mrs. J. M. Phillips has returned from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Norman Johnston and Mr. Johnston in Shreveport, La. Friends will regret to hear that Mrs. Johnston's home was swept away in the tornado that hit Shreveport last month.

Oscar, Old formerly of this city now of Little Rock, accompanied Dr. Hodge to Hope for the Organ Recital Friday evening. Oscar and Dr. Hodge were "buddies" during the World War.

WITH THE COUNTY AGENT
Oliver L. Adams

Farm Families in Hempstead county still have a few days left in which to enroll in the Live-at-Home and Plant-to-Prospere competition since the enrollment deadline has been moved up to May 1.

The Plant-to-Prospere and Live-at-Home competitions have the hearty endorsement of the Extension Service, since the objectives of both are the same—that is, improved farm family living standards.

The two competitions are based on the live-at-home program which the Extension Service has been encouraging for many years. They also require the keeping of home accounts, a practice long recommended by the Extension Service as a means by which farm families can study their past and present uses of land and cash and labor so that all three may be utilized to the best advantage in improving farm living standards.

Families who wish to enter either of the two competitions may obtain enrollment cards at the county Extension office.

Practically any green crop can be made into satisfactory silage if properly handled. Hempstead county farmers' problem is one of supplying silage for use during periods when it is most needed, either during drought periods or during winter months.

Satisfactory silage for use during both summer drought and the winter months can be secured from cereal grains planted in the spring or fall, according to information the county agent has received from N. W. Hilston, assistant animal husbandman of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture. These grains may be pastured for short periods, and then ensiled when they are in the dough stage.

Corn, sorghums, soybeans, or other heavy yielding crops planted in the late spring make for ample winter feed.

The per-acre yields of green material as secured at the College of Agriculture's Main Experiment Station in 1939 were: Atlas Sorgho 11.4 tons, Paymaster corn 7.2 tons, Sorgho 8.2 tons, unpastured oats 7.7 tons, and oats pastured full and spring 4.5 tons.

The following item from Thursday issue of The Texarkana Gazette will be of interest to the Boy Scouts of this City: News of the wedding of Burd Blodgett, Field Executive of the Caddo Council, Boy Scouts of America and Miss Henrietta Wonder of Finley, Ohio was made known here Wednesday night when Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clement entertained with an informal dinner at their home. Mr. Clement is the scout executive of the Council. In addition to the honorees, guests included Minor Huffman, deputy regional scout executive of Region No. 9 Dallas, and Miss Mary Kim Thomas, Secretary in the Texarkana Boy scout office. Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett were married at the home of the bride in Ohio last Sunday.

War Clouds Over British Princesses

Royal Parents Favoring Less Publicity During War

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Even as she celebrated her 14th birthday, April 21, Princess Elizabeth, heiress to the throne of the United Kingdom, had almost become Europe's most unknown royal child.

At the wish of her parents, due to the war, she is no longer publicized, no longer photographed. Nor is her Rose, who will be 10 years old younger sister, Princess Margaret Rose, who will be 10 years old Aug. 21.

In many ways these two have felt the war's effects like other children. They were practically evacuated for many months. When war broke out last September they were left by their parents at the Scotch highland home of Balmoral castle. They did not see their parents again until Christmas time.

At Balmoral the children learned that even for princesses it is not all play and no work. Miss Crawford, their governess, kept them at their studies just as usual. But there was something unusual, a sort of lesson in practical democracy for the princesses.

A kind of club was formed by the wives and children of the household staff, the foresters, and gamekeepers of the Balmoral estate. Together they knit socks for soldiers and Elizabeth and Margaret Rose knitted for them.

Many evacuees were sent from Glasgow to cottages on King George's estate at Glasgow. The princesses made friends with these children. Joined them in their games. At Christmas time they shopped in the village with other children, buying gifts in the Scotch equivalent of a dime store. And like the others, the princesses fell for the popular sheet music of the day, "Run Rabbit Run" and "Hang Up Your Washing on the Siegfried Line."

They also made Christmas cards of their own. The one thing they did at Christmas Glasgow children could not afford to do was to send gifts of chocolates to Madame Lebrun, wife of the president of France, who was collecting such presents to be sent to French children evacuees.

Perhaps the biggest event of each day for the princesses while in Scotland was the daily letter from their mother, who, no matter how busy, took time to write at least a little note. And each day also the princesses wrote jointly a letter to her, going into details about their lessons, their games and their other doings.

Since the holidays the princesses have been living at Royal Lodge in Great Windsor Park, the favorite "home" place of their parents. When free from engagements for the week-end for the king and queen can easily motor there from London.

In the last World War, when rationing was introduced, when the King George V conformed to it in Birmingham Palace. Today, with rationing in meat, butter, sugar and ham, the two princesses get meals at Royal Lodge which conform to the rule imposed on the subjects of their father.

Zeke Bonura Sold Washington Club

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants Friday sold first baseman Zeke Bonura to the Washington Senators for cash and one pitcher who will be optioned to New York's Jersey City farm club.

The amount received for Bonura, who was purchased from the Senators a little more than a year ago for an estimated $25,000 was not announced. It was believed, however, to be far below that sum. In addition to the money the Giants received Pitcher Rene Monteagudo, a southpaw from Cuba who was with the Springfield Eastern League club last season.

Bonura, a power hitter but an awkward fielder, was a holdout this spring and has not seen action with the Giants since the National League season started although he took part in a few exhibition games.

Layden Would End "Fake Injuries"

NOTRE DAME (AP)—Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame believes that football coaches should enter into a gentlemen's agreement to play their games without having players fake injuries and be substituted for without penalty.

Layden says it is probable that Notre Dame and the Army will come to such an understanding for their annual game next fall.

Layden says the practice creates worry among spectators and radio listeners and that parents of players reportedly hurt are often greatly concerned.

French patrol sought to attack this, then go on to German village to make sure it was evacuated.

Dollar-a-Year Government No More

Days of cheap government in the U. S. are over, as annual cost of federal spending per person reaches its highest level in history. Chart, against background of a federal day, shows annual per capita cost of government during 17 presidential periods. Lowest in history was during Washington's administration, when government cost each citizen only $1 a year.

A new scientific theory being tested is the coating of airplane wings with a thin layer of moving air to cut down air resistance. It is reported that this layer of air current should prevent eddy currents from forming.

One of World's Wealthiest Women Will Become a Mother in August

NEW YORK (AP)—A baby who will be born with a super-silver spoon in his mouth is expected in the household of James H. R. Cromwell and his wife, the former Doris Duke, one of the wealthiest women in the world.

A bright financial future assured by riches on both sides of the family awaits the child, due in August—the first baby of "the golden girl" who has inherited the bulk of the late James B. Duke's vast tobacco fortune and will receive more.

Cromwell, United States minister to Canada and aspirant for the New Jersey Democratic nomination for United States senator, is not only prosperous in his own right, but is in line for a share of the Philadelphia Stotesbury fortune as the stepson of the late banker, E. T. Stotesbury.

Cromwell, who announced Monday that he would resign his post as minister May 21, the date of New Jersey's primary election, confirmed the expected birth Tuesday in Ottawa.

The Cromwells have been "Mom" and "Pop" to each other in the presence of their close friends, since their marriage in 1935.

She is 27, he is 43, and the father of a debutante daughter, Christine, 16, by his first marriage to wealthy Delphine Dodge.

Far more successful at avoiding the limelight than another famous heiress, the former Barbara Hutton, Mrs. Cromwell has lived in comparative quiet—a firm-chinned, gold-blond girl of conservative tastes.

She was gently reared by her mother, through whom she eventually will inherit more of her father's millions, at Somerville, Newport, and the Dukes' imposing town house in the smart Seventies here.

She seldom went to the more garish night clubs. When she started to learn to dance from Bill (Bojangles) Robinson, it was some time before the public learned about it.

At 22, she inherited her first $100,000 from her father's estate. Another $100,000 share went to her at 25, and she will receive a third $100,000 at 30.

Peace, Not War, Is Thing That Kills

Congressman Uses Statistics in Startling Fashion

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—A couple of Odontoglossum Alexandrae to Rep. John M. Vorys of Columbus, Ohio.

The other evening at a social gathering, Mr. Vorys took the floor and demonstrated that he is a master of satire.

His audience was too small. So, although I'll turn up missing with the broad humor of Mr. Vorys' personal appearance—I'm going to risk passing it on.

Mr. Vorys' "lecture" was on "War and Peace." Explaining that he was a famous professor, schooled in foreign affairs, Mr. Vorys let it out that he "accompanied" Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles on his recent mission abroad. He could not "divulge" any of the great Wellesian discoveries but with charts and figures he had prepared from observation and research, a few enlightening conclusions on war and peace might be drawn.

Now, there's China—Mr. Vorys started with the slaughter in China, where there is no official war. He summed up with the startling information (he made up the figures) that some 10,000,000 persons had been killed.

Shifting to Poland, which never was officially at war with Germany, Mr. Vorys estimated that 300,000 had been killed there.

Then, there was the matter between Finland and Russia where another 250,000 spilled their life's blood on the field of battle—in spite of the fact that the two countries were not "at war."

Now, said Mr. Vorys, the scene has shifted to Norway, where Germany insists there is NO war. Although it is too early to estimate with any accuracy, it is safe to say that deaths there already have mounted into the many thousands.

Even in the United States, Mr. Vorys explained, this great nation which has been blessed with peace for several years now—from 90,000 to 105,000 persons die violently every year.

BUT, said Mr. Vorys, the Allies and Germany are at war. On the Western Front talks monstrous Mars, wielding his sword in Martian glee.

War Dead: 18

And what happens? After seven months, there were 118 killed, including two fellows who fell 22 stories down an elevator shaft in the Maginot line on New Year's morning.

"The conclusion," says Mr. Vorys, pontifically, "is almost too obvious to necessitate statement. It isn't war that kills people, it's PEACE."

I can hardly wait until Mr. Vorys' great theory reaches the four corners of the civilized world and pressure groups get to work.

Perhaps Japan could be persuaded to declare war on China and end that great slaughter. Maybe new world organizations would spring up: the "Society to prevent Peace" or an "Organization to Make Hitler Declare War On The World." What a relief it would be if the world were at war with Adolf and young men didn't have to die in needless peace.

An Old Stunt—Washington, I am sure, must be one of the most naive capitals of the world. Its comenators, although among the best informed anywhere, are the last to suspect peridy.

When the Nazis took Norway the Washington observers pressed their brows and couldn't believe Nazi political infiltration started so many months, even years ago, that the business of clipping Norway's wings was merely a matter of regimentering traitors.

Yet I talked to one of the men in the army today who beat his head, said, "Lord yes, I should have known. I talked to hundred of Belgians after the war—I was stationed there—and over and over heard the stories of how the Germans took scores of towns by false orders and by driving ahead of them a small army of Belgian peasants, so the defenders could not shoot without murdering their own blood. The Nazis aren't doing anything new. It's just that we've forgotten German methods of warfare—which are the cleverest in the world."

How to Brake Mail and Influence People

SALEM, Ore.—(AP)—Mail between Oregon penitentiary inmates and the governor's office has diminished from about 15 letters a day to one or two a week.

Cecil Edwards, executive department secretary, explains it this way: The state decided to furnish stationery with a printed form on the back. Every time a convict writes to the governor or the parole board he must list his complete criminal record.

Something New in Team - Work Mural Painting

AP Feature Service

ST. LOUIS—Edward Millman and Mitchell Siporin comprise one of the few painting "teams" in the country. Together they landed the biggest single mural job ever commissioned by the Federal government—filling 3,000 square feet of bare plaster in the lobby of St. Louis' new postoffice with a pictorial history of the city.

They got the $29,000 contract in competition with 215 other painters.

While most artists prefer to work alone, these young Chicagoans have teamed up for 10 years. Millman is 32, Siporin 29.

In many ways they are alike. Both are short of build. Both are sons of Russian-Jewish immigrants. Both were scholarship students at the Chicago Art Institute, and both got their real starts on WPA's Federal Art Projects.

When the actual work of painting begins this fall, they will start at opposite ends of the lobby and work toward the center. Their styles are similar enough to avoid contrast.

Jonesboro Coach May Resign Post

Clorence Geis May Quit Because of Athletic Policies

JONESBORO—Although a new contract has been offered him, Coach Clarence Geis may resign as coach of Jonesboro High School because of dissatisfaction in some quarters over the school's athletic policies.

James R. McCauley, chairman of the Athletic Committee, praised Coach Geis work here the past season and said he could return if he desired. Geis said he preferred not to discuss the matter. He said he had not resigned.

It was said that charges that some athletes had received financial assistance had caused dissatisfaction among others. Dissension was reported to have been caused by this situation among members of the basketball squad during the latter part of the season. The same trouble was said to have arisen during spring football practice. Only 12 men reported the final day of grid practice.

Some Good Advice on Raising Child

Don't Get Upset Over Mistake Made By Child

By RUTH MILLETT

There is a new baby in your home and you want to enjoy him (or her) to the fullest from cradle to college. A mother who has never found herself irritated by her two children even when they were acting like "demons" is willing to lend you her formula.

Her name is Elaine Sterne Carrington. Perhaps you have heard it, for in addition to being the author of many short stories, she writes the homey radio serial, "Pepper Young's Family."

Here's her theory: "I think mothers would get more real fun out of their babies, and also be more patient with them if they would lower on them as visitors from another country who neither know our language or our customs—but are eager to learn."

"That was the way I thought of my own son and daughter when they were babies."

Mrs. Carrington's daughter, Patricia, is 15 and her son Bobby, is 10 years old.

Wasn't Upset over Children's Mistakes

Mrs. Carrington says her theory kept her from being over-careful of her children. "I always let them take a whack at things," she says. And she never talked down to them.

Here theory (plus a sense of humor) also kept her from getting upset over her children's table manners. "Whatever land my visitors came from, they had obviously never heard of table manners," she says with a chuckle. But there again she found that children who were set a good example picked up good manners quickly.

"I treat them as courteously and as considerately as any guests I have," she told me, "for I want to make their visit with me as delightful as possible. And it so happens they are the only guests I have ever had that I would like to have stay on indefinitely."

Mrs. Carrington firmly believes that if more mothers treated their children as guests they were delighted to have around, there would be fewer grown-up children who return home only from a sense of duty.

Lets Children Work Out Own Ideas

"No matter how busy I am," she says, "I'm never too busy to listen attentively to them when they come home from school bursting with news and ideas they are eager to share."

"And I don't force my ideas on them. I even let them select their own clothes. They make few mistakes, because the other children make fun of them if they buy anything that is too odd or different. And they know they have to wear their mistakes."

"I always try to let them start anything that strikes their fancy. If they need materials to carry out their ideas, I get the material for them. But they know they must see any thing they start through to a finish."

Not So Dumb

LARAMIE, Wyo.—(AP)—Jay Olish Larabee, received a letter, addressed merely to his postoffice box number, from old Mexico. Signed Senorita So-and-So, he couldn't determine whether it was a love note or a sales talk.

He turned it over to a Spanish interpreter, who reported it was neither. The Senorita simply had chosen a Laramie box number at random and addressed a appeal to it to try and locate three of her relatives last heard from in Laramie.

"It's a quite common practice," said the interpreter. "The writer knows the owner of the box probably doesn't speak Spanish and will save the services of a Spanish-speaking person who will be interested sufficiently to do the chore that the writer wants done."

"I'll try and find the seniority relatives for her."

Back Picks Red Sox or Indians to Beat Out the Yankees This Season

By HARRY GRAYSON
Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Conn.—Mack sticks to his prediction that either the Red Sox or Indians will beat out the Yankees this season.

In his introductory remarks, given at the Philadelphia party last night, Mack said it was time for the good of the game that some club took the lead away from the Yankees, as Connie Mack.

You also gather that Mr. Mack expects rather hopes, complacency with his part in the New York Yankees.

Why Mr. Mack chooses to overlook the Colonel, Jacks are a comparatively young outfit, the pick of the league, with almost inexhaustible replacements.

Baseball is more than ever a business, and the Yankees are young business men. They know they must continue to dominate the field to remain in the upper brackets of baseball salaries.

The collapse of outstanding championship clubs managed by Mr. Mack and other famous leaders could be traced to calm contentment, but Joe McCarthy has a way of his own to keep capable athletes from rusting into a state of self-satisfaction.

Champs Have Spirit of a College Team

It has been said and written that anyone could win with the Yankees. That may be true, but one fact must be accepted. No one could get more than a manager. He is one of the foremost diplomats, for it is not easy to keep a club that has bagged four successive world championships free of cliques, feuds and prima donnas.

Perhaps the biggest tribute to McCarthy is that at this stage of the proceedings, where the Yankees figure to be surfeited with success, they come closer to having the spirit of a college football team than any other professional outfit in any line.

And in analyzing the Red Sox and Indians, Mr. Mack and the others speak of the expected improvement here and there.

The Yankees do not have to bank on expected progress.

Yankee Efficiency Stops Connie Mack

"But there's every bit as much power up and down the Red Sox batting order as there is with the Yankees," points out Mr. Mack, "and if this expected improvement in pitching develops, you'll really see something in Boston this season."

Cleveland has the phenomenal Bob Feller, and Johnny Allen appears to be back in stride. Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack solved the Cleveland second basing problem. The club has more spirit than it has had since 1920.

Mr. Mack, speaking from a vast amount of experience, used to contend the third straight pennant was the toughest to win.

The Yankees are shooting for their fifth consecutive world championship.

Yankee efficiency has stopped even Connie Mack, who was in baseball 25 years before the American League was formed.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

Theater Was No Place for a Lady in Raucous Days

Somebody should have written it a long time ago, but the story's decidedly worth waiting for as Foster Rhea Dulles tells it in "America Learns to Play" (Appleton-Century $4). This is a history of popular recreation and public fun in America (1867 to 1940) from the tavern to the theater, the city to the cowtown, with a lot of other sideglances thrown in. You haven't learned half of your American history till you've read it. It's gay, lusty and scholarly by turns, but always entertaining. Told here are two incidents which vividly reflect the changing American scene:

One of the earliest records of horse-racing, which was to become Virginia's most popular sport, has this undemocratic note. A tailor was fined in 1674 for "having made a race for his mare to run with a horse belonging to Mr. Matthew Slader for two thousand pounds of tobacco and cash, it being contrary to law for a Laborer to make a race, being a sport for Gentlemen."

(But by 1800 the country was more democratic; democracy at least had come to the theater, maybe too much democracy.)

There were really no comfortable seats anywhere in the house. The boxes were "like pens of beasts," the playhouse was "a place of no more than the boxes. Women were not generally allowed in this section. What is now considered the choicest part of the theater would be crowded with a conglomerate mass of men who left on their hats, took off their coats, and made themselves at home with complete disregard of the more polite amenities.

The habit of standing on the benches and spitting into the boxes or on the stage was deprecated, a writer in the New York Herald satirically approving the custom at Niblo's, where a gentleman could place his hat on the floor and have it serve as a spittoon for three men behind him, who ingeniously spit over each other's shoulders."

"The place was pervaded by evil smells," the description of the Park states, "and not uncommonly in the midst of a performance, rats ran out of the holes in the floor and across into the orchestra."

Seventy-five thousand troops are mobilizing in southern states for the annual army-war games that will cover a 900-square mile area in eastern Texas and Louisiana. The 15-day practice war will begin May 10. Members of the 8th Cavalry at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex. as, are pictured above boarding the train that will take them to spring maneuvers.

Some Handy Feats

No, the pictures aren't upside down. Seems that Frank Annenberg, of Pottawatomie County, Kan., a physical education instructor at Kansas U., can do most anything in a handy fashion. To prove it, he hears off some whippersnappers upside down (left) and then sets off for a stroll on roller skates—without the benefit of feet. His feats are just a "hobby."

Taft Outsmarted by Tom Dewey in Maryland "Race"

WASHINGTON — Real truth about the race that didn't come off in Maryland's G. O. P. primary is that as-future Senator Taft was just aware of the "out-smarted" by supposedly unsophisticated Tom Dewey.

Taft's explanation that he stayed out of the race because the bosses could have been lined up for Taft; the Dewey people just naturally got to them first.

Maryland's G. O. P. has a factional fight between ex-Gov. Harry Nice and W. F. Broening, ex-mayor of Baltimore, who are running for the Senate with control of the state G. O. P. the real stake at issue. They didn't want a presidential primary contest muddying the waters, and after the Dewey people got them lined up, they begged Taft to say out. He complied, figuring the machines would win the primary anyhow and that there was no sense getting in a family row.

But if staying out of a party row lost Taft a delegation in Maryland, it apparently won him one in West Virginia. Neither Taft nor Dewey has entered the primary there, but some smart preliminary spade work seems to have given Taft the delegates.

Several weeks ago the Taft crowd decided to find out exactly what prospects were in West Virginia. They sent a big auto tour of the state to make extensive "sampling" straw vote tests.

The canvassers, incidentally, decided they had to have some sort of name to operate under, so they called themselves "The Institute of Political Research." They had some funny experiences.

In a number of cases, citizens they flagged for a vote would say, "Oh, yes, I've heard of you people. You do a pretty scientific job of analyzing opinion, don't you?" Two or three times a canvasser would stop by a by-passer with, "May I have a moment of your time?"—and the by-passer would simply give him a dime and hurry on.

Anyhow, these polls convinced the Taft people that they could win if there was a contest, but they didn't want a contest if they could help it, because there was an inside-the-party scrap on for state control.

So, in the end, they made out filing papers and entrusted them to a West Virginia G. O. P. bigwig, with instructions not to file them unless Dewey filed. Meanwhile the Dewey group was eyeing the situation and likewise decided the scrap was a good one to stay out of if possible. So they, too, made out filing papers and left them to be entered only if Taft filed.

Odd part about it all was that the man the Dewey crowd left their papers with was the same man the Taft

NEW YORK — Lou Schaefer, the trainer who won the Chesapeake Stakes with Pictor, rode Whiskery home first in the same event 13 years ago.

Three colts have gone on from a Chesapeake Stakes victory to capture the Kentucky Derby—Whiskery, Cavalcade and War Admiral.

William L. Brann, who also bred Challedon, may have something in Pictor at Churchill Downs, May 4, especially if it comes up mud. This doesn't mean Pictor, like Challedon a son of Challenger II, can't move swiftly enough on a fast track.

And there's nothing like a challenge to spur a son of Challenger II.

Another superior mudder in the Derby will be Roman, which may give Joseph Earl Widener his first victory in the big number in the Blue-grass.

Roman's time for his six-furlong victory in the Elmdorf Purse at Keeneland—1:13 1-5—was excellent considering the track, his margin of six lengths and the fact that it was his first start as a 3-year-old.

It is difficult to find anyone in Lexington who will not predict a victory for Col. Edward Riley Bradley's Bimelech in the Derby, but all end their prediction with "If he starts."

The secrecy with which Bimelech's training has been conducted causes many to suspect all is not well at Idle Hour Farm.

Henry Greenberg now likes the Detroit outfield so well he tells Rudy York he had better make good at first base, because Hankus Pankus does not intend to return to the position he played for a decade.

The Bronx Bomber believes the switch will lengthen his baseball life. The only thing he dislikes about chasing flies is the long jog in and out.

Jimmy Fox of the Red Sox needs only 29 more home runs to pass Lou Gehrig's 494 and become runner-up to Babe Ruth. But after that it's a considerable haul to the Babe's 714.

Jack Powell is in the hospital.

OUT OUR WAY

Joe DiMaggio has a twisted knee... Red Ruffing is applying hot and cold applications to a bruised elbow... Lefty Gomez has a stiff neck... Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, could be excused for complaining about a slight headache.

Horace Stoneham and Bill Terry should get together on night baseball and Stoneham spent $125,000 on installation of lights at the Polo Grounds and Terry blasted the nocturnal version as a backward step.

Platak Would Meet Al Banuet as Pro

Tired of staying in condition the year around, which he has done for the six consecutive years he has won the national A. A. U. singles handball championship, Joe Platak plans to wind up that kind of a life within a year.

The Chicago wonder would play or go on a tour with Al Banuet if some promoter could show him how he could earn enough money to make it worth while to turn professional.

LARAMIE, Wyo. — (AP) — Herman Fanning, employee of a dairy, was standing in a puddle of water loading milk cans into a truck.

After a few moments he tried to move but couldn't. His feet were frozen fast to the floor. Friends had to use a steam hose to get him loose. The thermometer, at the time, read about 30 below.

Sprint Defeats Made Rice Distance Man

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (AP) — Greg Rice originally was a sprinter and shifted to the longer distances because a team mate could consistently beat him in the short runs and Greg wanted to win his races.

"There was a negro boy back in Missoula, Montana, ten years ago named Leo Lundy who ran the sprints and so did I. Lea beat me easily and I still wanted to win. The only alternative was to shift to the longer races. Then I began running the half mile and the mile," Greg said.

Rice set a new three-mile indoor record when he beat Don Lash and Taisto Maki in a New York race.

Beating Crime in the Blackouts

LONDON — (AP) — Youthful crime increased in this war as it did in the last, but this time the government tackled the problem early.

Realizing how the blackout eased the way to crime, the board of education sponsored local welfare clubs for boys and girls 14 to 26, splitting the cost with local authorities.

They provide libraries, gymnasium and dancing classes, table tennis and other indoor games and social guidance to keep young minds off crime possibilities.

IN THE HEMPSTEAD CHANCERY COURT

STATE OF ARKANSAS VS. NO 5427 (1936 Tax Suit)

DELINQUENT LANDS IN HEMPSTEAD COUNTY FORFEITED FOR NON-PAYMENT OF TAXES AND SOLD TO THE STATE OF ARKANSAS

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to Act No. 119 of the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas of 1935, there has been filed in the office of the Clerk of Hempstead County Chancery Court the complaint of the State of Arkansas to quiet and confirm in said State and/or redeemers, purchasers, donees and assigns, the title to certain lands mentioned in said complaint and lying in the County of Hempstead and State of Arkansas.

All persons who can set up any right to the lands so forfeited and sold are hereby warned to appear in the Hempstead County Chancery Court at the March 1946 Term, after the publication of this notice, to-wit on the 5 day of July, 1946, and show cause, if any there be, why the title to said forfeited lands should not be confirmed, quieted and vested in the State of Arkansas and/or redeemers, purchasers, donees and assigns in fee simple forever.

The description of said lands and the names of the persons, firm or corporation last paying taxes thereon are as follows:
